

Mini Museum opens in Tavistock to celebrate policing history in Devon and Cornwall

Decades of policing history in Devon and Cornwall was celebrated with the official opening of a new 'mini' museum in Tavistock.

The Museum of Policing in Devon and Cornwall (MOPIDAC) unveiled its premises last week (5 March) and guests at the special event included the Acting Chief Constable of Devon & Cornwall Police - Jim Colwell, the High Sheriff of Devon – the Rt Rev Nicholas McKinnel (who was previously a police chaplain in Plymouth), the Mayor of Tavistock – Councillor Andy Hutton, and Police and Crime Commissioner for Devon, Cornwall and the Isles of Scilly - Alison Hernandez.

For the full article please see the Devon & Cornwall Police website here.